On the basis of the SAR prepared by the PDMF Committee Secretariat, PDMF Committee either approves (absolutely or conditionally) or disapproves an application for PDMF Support. Hence, the SAR is a requisite document for the approval of the PDMF support for the Project and the consequent signing of the Technical Assistance Agreement (TAA) between the beneficiary Implementing Agency (IA) and the PPP Center. Upon signing of the TAA, the procurement of the Consultant for the requested services will commence. The SAR includes identification of important activities for a Project. For example, in the SAR prepared for the DOT Central Office Main Building Project, it was highlighted that the project proposed involves the construction and operations and maintenance of a mixed-use, multi-story, green-design/energy efficient, and gender-responsive building and its associated facilities. To ensure its gender-responsiveness, the SAR identified Environment, Gender, and Social Safeguards Analyses as one of the important activities for the project. For this purpose, a Social Development and Gender Specialist is required to undertake the gender analysis component of the project. Moreover, the SAR also mentioned the need for gender-responsive building and ancillary facilities as one of the project's objectives.

Within the roster of courses under the program, the discussion of Gender, Disability, and Social Inclusion in PPP projects likewise deepen. The 2023 Programmed CBAs are composed of topics under the three-pillars. Introductory courses begin with informing that Social/Gender and environmental impact assessment is one of the critical components of a well-prepared PPP Feasibility Study. Meanwhile, project-focused courses such as that of initial project identification, selection and prioritization, and PPP project concept note preparation feature discussions on social and gender safeguards in PPP projects guided by the PPP Governing Board Guidelines on the Mainstreaming Environmental, Displacement, Social and Gender Concerns. This further reinforces to the implementing agencies the value of incorporating specific considerations and safeguards on indigenous people, vulnerable groups, gender equality/responsiveness, and women empowerment when identifying and developing PPP Projects. Discussions also make reference to existing policy frameworks on Gender and Social inclusion such as the Magna Carta for Women, Magna Carta for PWDs, Safe Spaces Act and Anti-Sexual Harassment Law. In addition to this, the Urban Development and Housing Act, Right of Way Act, and the Indigenous People's Rights also provide guidance on the minimum safeguard requirements including an implementation of resettlement action plan, equitable entitlement for women and men, allocation of additional training, and consultation for entitlements with women and men participants. Furthermore, participants are guided on the steps in developing a more inclusive PPP project starting from proper stakeholder consultation focusing on the identification of known gender related, social inclusion and resettlement needs and concerns regarding the project, development of an action plan to reflect how the identified needs and concerns can be addressed and applying this through the project design and specifications. List of capacity building activities and the sample slides of the modules are provided as a means of verification for this item.
